

Partner Spotlight:

Father Jack Jones Food Pantry

Located in the basement of the old rectory of Holy Name Church on South Third Street, Dare to Care's partner, Father Jack Jones Food Pantry, primarily serves the surrounding 40208 neighborhood. The pantry is operated by Catholic Charities and is named for Father John E. Jones, who passed in 2012 and helped begin of Dare to Care Food Bank after the tragic loss of Bobby Ellis.

"Since I've started managing FJJFP, I've noticed relationships are the core of everything that we do. Relationships with our neighbors, volunteers, and businesses help keep our program thriving. It's incredibly fulfilling to walk alongside our community members as they experience life, and we have the pleasure of being a source of nutritional and social support." - Harmony Lanham, Community Referral and Food Pantry Coordinator with Catholic Charities of Louisville
